- Once debate begins the Chair will ask if there are any points for motions on the floor. If you have any points or motions this would be the time to make a point or motion from above. If there are no points or motions on the floor the Chair will proceed with the speaker's list.
- The Chair's main purpose is to provide structure for debate. The Chair decides if the point or motion is in order or necessary. The Chair will avoid interfering with debate, however, they may need to steer conversation if the debate is lacking.

*** After speaking during debate you still have the floor until your time has expired. In order to continue debate you may yield your time. The ways in which you can yield your time (meaning render your remaining time to someone else):

1. To the Chair
2. To another delegate speaking on the same topic in the previous speech.
3. To questions pertaining specifically to your speech.
